French Art Deco Chandelier by Jean Noverdy Signed

Description
Stylish and elegant Jean Noverdy French Art Deco chandelier from the 1920s. Signed and in great original condition, the wiring hides in the three hanging rods and supplies all bulbs (one in each 'tulip' and one for the central shade). I guess more bulbs could be added if you like, and i can provide quotes for wiring to your countries regulations.
The metalware has its original patina and the geometric design of the glass is nicely echoed in the ceiling rose.
The hanging rods could be changed for chain or cord, or cut (but that gives me shudders!) if you wanted less of a drop, which is currently 69 centimetres / 27". We are often seeing these whole chandeliers suspended from additional lengths of chain, if more of a drop is needed.
This white frosted pate de verre glass seems to work well in all interiors and is by far our most popular type, making this a great investment.
